Church musical set for tomorrow

MARLBORO — First Church in Marlboro (Congregational) will present a special musical offering worship service on Sunday, June 28. The Little Singers of Greater Boston and the Broadmoor Chamber Singers of Natick, both conducted by Jonathan C. Rappaport; with special guests, the St. Louis Children's Choirs, directed by Ethelyn Sparfeld, will present a variety of music from composers such as Schubert, Brahms, Hopson, Williams, Kodaly and Williamson. The Little Singers of Boston are currently celebrating their 10th anniversary. The ages of the children range from five through 15 years and are from 12 metropolitan communities. They strive to develop a love of beautiful, expressive singing. They have performed with the Children's Choir of Bucks County, Pennsylvania, and the Schenectady Community College Children's Choir.

The Broadmoor Chamber Singers specialize in unaccompanied choral literature, especially "early" music and pieces from contemporary composers.

The St. Louis Children's Choirs have toured Tokyo, Kyoto, and Suwa, the sister city of St. Louis. They have just finished performing in Pennsylvania, Washington, D.C. (White House Lawn) and New York (The United Nations).

The Holy Trinity Church in Marlboro will be participating in the Worship service as well. This promises to be a beautiful expression of Worship and an invitation is extended to all to attend. The Service will be at 10:30 a.m.
