To Attend Academy

These four Parkway School District Administrators will attend the 1988-89 school year St. Louis Principals' Academy, which offers professional growth and development to participants with the goal of "building a stronger principal." They are Christy Johnson, assistant principal, West High; Fran Poger, administrative intern, River Bend Elementary; Connie Paul, administrative intern, Ross Elementary; and Jody Carter, administrative intern, East Junior (left to right). Also attending the academy will be Ed Harris, administrative intern, South High (not pictured). The year-long program includes individual study and group activities emphasizing three components: Study of group selected issues confronting school leadership; self assessment followed by skill development; and individual school improvement and change.

Students Return From Choir Tour

Parkway School District students who are members of the St. Louis Children's Choirs returned in late August after a successful tour in the Pacific Northwest that included participation in the International Choral Festival in Powell River, British Columbia. Competing choirs came from as far away as Estonia in the Soviet Union, Hungary and Austria.

The St. Louis group received special recognition for its performance and included Parkway district students Matt Alber, East Junior; Erin Brown, West Junior; Susan Church and Ely Wilson, South Junior; Kevin McKeever, Central Junior; Christine Killmer, Jeff Stringer and Michael Herron, Central High; Jennifer Pfeiffer, South High; Darin Pierce, West High; and Brad Rouse, North High.

Placing fourth in their division in the competition were Herron, Killmer, Pfeiffer, Pierce, Rouse, Stringer and Wilson.

Band Benefit Fair Set
